WHEN I DIE.

Will the friends I love be near me
When I die?
Will they shrink to touch the pallor
Of the lips that turn to meet them,
Trembling with the last "Good-bye?"

May my father's arm enfold me
When I die,
They will shield my heart from terror
When I go to meet the shadows
That beneath the flowers lie?

And my mother, sweetest mother,
When I die,
I would have thy voice to soothe me
'Till it mingled with the music
Of the angels in the sky.

Brothers, sisters, kiss me often,
When I die,
And my lips will smile in closing
As if clasped in dreams so golden
That I will not wake to sigh.

Ah, the world will soon forget me
When I die,
And its flowers will bloom as brightly
And its birds will sing as sweetly,
Though I loved them and I die.

A Select Story.

[From the California Golden Eagle]

A DUEL BY CANDLE-LIGHT.

It was in the winter of 1851—the 17th of November. Well do I remember the day—not alone from the circumstances I am about to relate, but—but no matter. The experience of every early adventurer here is dotted with enduring landmarks, to guide the noiseless step of recollection back through the dim vistas of the past, and lengthen the great way of life. Broad, this evening, is the road we travel to-day, and flowers still blossom besides it, and thorns linger in the sight; but further back, and it narrows into a thread-like path, along which the flowers lie dead and scentless, and touching here and there at a moment of bliss, a sepulchre of hope, or approaches the confines of memory, and is soon lost to sight.

Well, it was the 17th of November. The day had been a dreary, drizly one, and as night approached, the wind lulled, and a heavy fog rolled like a mighty avalanche of snow over the hills west of San Francisco, and settled in a thick, almost drenching, mist over mudy streets and house tops. 'Twas indeed, a chilly, cheerless evening, and we do not wonder then, nor do we now, that the gambling houses were crowded, and the bars of the drinking saloons thronged, for the city was full of strangers, and promenading the half-paved streets by the light of an occasional door lamp, could scarcely be deemed positive enjoyment.

The "El Dorado" was the great centre of attraction. It was not only one of the largest and most substantial structures in the city, but its proprietors were men whose wealth was counted by tens of thousands, and every bank in its capacious saloon was loaded with golden slugs and ounces. Through the room were ranged no less than twenty tables, at which were played faro, monte, vinget unrouge et noire, lansquanet, and a variety of other games, the very names of which have escaped me, while from a raised platform, poured a continuous flood of exquisite music from a band of the best musicians in the country. The finest musical talent in the State found employment in the gambling saloons in San Francisco and Sacramento, and many of the most noted performers in the country to-day, made their debut before an audience of gamblers. Simonton, the well known violinist, and Pettinos, one of the best pianists, in the State, for two years occupied together the platform of the "El Dorado" at Sacramento, receiving $64 per day for their service, and the very first musician once led an orchestra at another gambling house in the "City of the Plains."

As we said before, the "El Dorado" was crowded. Many were betting and venturing their last dollar with an unconcern characteristic of the time, while as many more were elbowing their way from one table to another, with no other object than the gratification of their curiosity, and the vain hope of seeing some desperate gambler "tan" a bank and win it. A dozen or more were reeling through the saloon, entirely too wealthy, in their own estimation, to even covet the piles of lucre around them, while not a few might be observed, with their hands jammed into their empty pockets, staring abstractedly at the progress of the game that had relieved them of their last ounce.

The band had commenced its second performance for the evening, and seemed intent in boisterous execution to drown the clamor of clinking silver, when a tall, muscular looking miner stepped in front of the door, and gazing a moment at the scene within, buttoned up his thick coat around him, and started down Washington street. He was coarsely but comfortably clad. A pair of heavy brown whiskers covered his face, and the broad brim of a slouched hat almost rested upon his shoulders.

"This way, Jane," said a voice to a female who had just emerged from a small wooden building immediately below the "El Dorado" and stood hesitating beside a pool of mud and water. The miner stopped, and as the woman carefully selected a stepping place, and sprang to the pavement, he involuntarily caught her by the arm. Somewhat surprised at the prompt assistance, she gazed into his sunburnt face for a moment, and thanking him politely, passed on with her companion, who had taken a more circuitous but less dangerous (to his polished boots) route to the sidewalk.

Hesitating for a moment, the miner turned and followed. He started as he saw her enter a gambling saloon. Pushing his way through the crowd, he next discovered her seated behind a monte table. We do not wonder that his dark eyes flashed—for her sweet face was pale and care-worn, and the smiles that played upon it were as meaningless as a wayside moonbeam. Her companion, who "called" and cashed the games as she turned the cards, was what any lady, without a too careful scrutiny of the face, would have pronounced a fine looking man. He was dressed in the extreme of good taste, with exception, perhaps, of too great a display of jewelry. His features were regular, and his eyes piercing and restless; but that proud curl of the lip, which not unfrequently denotes firmness and manly independence, in him was a repulsive indication of recklessness and disdain.

The cards were shuffled, and a "lay out" given.

"Make your bets, gentlemen," sang out the gambler, while he jingled a pile of silver before him; "a jack and a ten—make your bets."

Pulling his hat over his eyes, the miner approached the table, and carelessly tossed a golden ounce upon the ten. The dealer looked up, and again her eyes met those of the unsborn stranger. She knew not why—for a thousand eyes had gazed as intently into hers before—but the color mounted to her cheek, and she involuntarily admonished the miner to withdraw his bet. The indication, slight though it appeared, was not lost on the gambler, who answered it with a frown dark as midnight, and turned a searching stare upon the stranger, who met it with a glance of defiance that brought the hand of the gambler to the hand of a revolver in his belt. The woman observed all. The miner quietly folded his arms, and the dealer, with trembling hand, proceeded to draw the cards. The jack won. Again the cards were dealt, and two ounces were thrown down by the stranger instead of one. He lost a second time, and again, and a pile of golden pieces had been transferred from his pocket to the table.

"Let your husband deal," said the loser, addressing the woman, "perhaps it may change my luck!"

At the mention of the word "husband," a peculiar smile rested upon his lips, and the eyes of the woman dropped to the table, as if to avoid the scrutiny of the stranger, that he might not read in them a confession that she had no husband, although she was a mother. But he read all.

Again the cards were dealt. There was a perceptible nervousness of the hand, and a strange twinkle in the eye of the miner, as he drew from the pockets of his overcoat two purses. All eyes were turned towards him.

"I'll bet a hundred ounces on the ace!" he exclaimed to the astonished gambler, dropping the sacks of dust on the table, "and will draw the cards myself."

"Five hundred dollars is the limit," said the gambler.

"There is no limit to your rascality!" thundered the stranger, "nor should there be to your game!" and he replaced the purses in his pocket.

The gambler sprang to his feet, with his hand upon his revolver; but ere he could draw it, a blow from the brawny fist of the stalwart miner sent him reeling to the floor.

In a moment all was confusion. A dozen gamblers from the adjoining tables rushed to the rescue of the fallen blackleg, with pistols and knives glittering in the lamp-light. The woman had risen to her feet, and stood speechless behind the table.

"Stand back," shouted the miner, drawing from his belt with his left hand a huge bowie knife, and swinging an eight inch navy revolver in the other. "Stand back!" he repeated, retreating against the wall as the gamblers attempted to close upon him, "or by the Mother of God, I'll strew the floor with your carcasses!"

"Shoot him down!" cried one of the gamblers, brandishing a pistol over his head, and evincing little inclination to undertake the job himself.

"The first man pulls a trigger dies!" said an elderly gentleman, breaking through the crowd, and placing himself beside the lion-hearted miner. "Ten to one is too great an odds for any man. He is a stranger to me, but by h—ll, he shall have fair play!"

"Right! right!" shouted the crowd, beginning to understand the nature of the broil, "give him a chance!" and a dozen more pistols suddenly found the light.

"Let me at him!" yelled the gambler, who had been knocked down, attempting to reach the offender through the throng.

"Make way for him!" hissed the miner, "and I will use nothing but this!" and he raised his twelve inch bowie knife and threw himself into an attitude of defense.

"Hold!" said an elderly man, he who had first insisted upon fair play; "if you really do want to fight, select some spot where there are fewer spectators. If not, put up your weapons."

"You are right," said the miner; "but I will meet the scoundrel where he will, when he will, and with what he will."

"Enough," returned the gambler, rendered desperate with rage; "follow me with a friend, and I will accommodate you in ten minutes."

"I am completely at your service," said the stranger; "but I have no friend here, unless I may call you one, from the friendly part you have already assumed in this difficulty."

"I will not desert you now," said the old man, extending his hand, "for you are a brave man, and a Kentuckian knows how to appreciate courage."

The miner smiled, and stepping to the table where the woman was sitting, pale and trembling, said to her in a low voice:

"Fear nothing—if you are sent for, do not fail to come." Then taking the arm of the old Kentuckian, he followed the gambler, who was just quitting the saloon, accompanied by his friend.

"My friend," said the miner, as soon as they had reached the street, "the fight must be in a room alone, and without seconds—with what weapons I care not. Let whatever may transpire thereafter excite no inquiry, and I will explain all to-morrow."

The Kentuckian bowed. Both parties passed down Washington street for some distance, and halted in front of a small two-story brick building. The door was opened by a Chinaman, and taking a lighted candle, the gambler led the way up a flight of stairs to a small back room. It had one window, and was furnished with a cot bedstead, washstand, and two chairs. Placing the light upon one of the latter, the gambler strode towards the stranger, who had just entered, and said:

"Here is the place, and now the time!"

He expected the miner to manifest symptoms of terror at the announcement, and ask to defer the meeting; but he was in error, and the cool reply of "exactly," rendered him alarmingly cognizant of the fact.

As a last effort to shake the resolution of the belligerent mountaineer, and avoid the encounter, for which he felt no inclination, the gambler said, with affected calmness:

"If we fight at all, it must be alone, and in this room, each armed with a revolver and a bowie."

"I am fortunately provided with both," was the resolute reply.

"Then, d—n you, take the consequences!" returned the gambler, determined to fire before the word, and finding courage in the dishonorable resolution. He found little consolation in the smile just perceivable through the heavy beard of his antagonist.

The arrangements for the desperate encounter were soon made. The principals each armed with a knife and revolver, were to be placed on opposite sides of the room; the door was to be locked on the outside, and at a word from the seconds, the fight was to commence, with either weapon, and to continue for ten minutes, at the expiration of which time the seconds were to re-enter the room.

The weapons were examined, and the combatants placed for slaughter by candle-light. The door had scarcely been closed and locked, before the gambler raised his pistol and fired! The ball lodged in the ceiling, not an inch from the head of the other. With the spring of a tiger, the latter threw himself upon the gambler, and crushed him to the floor, before he had time to use either pistol or knife.—Wrestling the weapons from his grasp, he seized him by the throat, and holding a knife to his breast, the miner swore he would bury it there if he uttered a word.

"All right—give the word?" said the miner, as the seconds were about to enter, to ascertain the reason of the report.

"Are you ready?"

"Yes."

"Fire!—one—two—three!"

No report followed, and the seconds looked at each other in silence.

"Now tell me, Mark Brigham, why I should not slay you, who attempted to assassinate me," said the miner.

"The shot was accidental indeed it was," returned the trembling gambler. "Spare me, and I will return you every dollar you have lost—give you all I possess."

"Let me tell you now why I should slay you. It is not for the dollars you have won from me, for I do not value them—not your cowardly attempt to murder me, for I expected it. Ten years ago you stole a young girl by the name of Jane Farley, from a boarding school in Rochester New York, and under a promise of marriage, induced her to elope with you to New Orleans. Her parents, who lived three miles from the city, did not know you, for you were not a resident of the place, and never visited the family but once. You did not marry the girl. You made her your mistress—the mistress of a gambler—and as such she become a mother. Shame prevented her communicating with her parents, and they are still ignorant of her fate. Three years ago she accompanied you to California. Her brother, who had become a man, had vowed terribly to revenge the fate of his sister should he ever meet her, followed shortly after, unaware of her presence here. One night he heard her name pronounced on the street. He followed her to a gambling hell, and recognized her, and by her side sat her seducer, whom he had seen but twice before. In venturing his money, he found ready means to bring about an encounter, in which he determined to kill you. He met you in a room alone. You attempted to assassinate him.—Do you know me now?"

"Mercy!—spare me!" said the gambler, "and—"

"On one condition," replied Farley.

"Name it."

"That you marry the woman you have dishonored, and abandon your thieving vocation."

"I consent—but when?"

"This very hour."

"I promise," said the gambler.

"But your promise is not sufficient," replied Farley. "I will have better guarantee. This pistol shall not leave my hands or your side, until the promise is filled; and by my hopes of heaven, if you hesitate in the performance, or show a disposition to escape, I will put a ball through your body."

Placing all the weapons in his pockets except the pistol which he had cocked in his hand, Farley released the gambler, and ordered him to send for Jane and a carriage. Through the half opened door, which the seconds had opened in response to a knock within, Brigham repeated the order to his astonished friend. Learning that no blood had been shed, the latter left the house, and in a few moments Jane was in the presence of the silent combatants. She requested an explanation, but was told that all would soon be made clear, and the whole party entered the carriage and were driven to the house of a clergyman on Stockton street, where, with a pistol ready to use upon the bride-groom, should he falter, Mark Brigham and Jane Farley were made man and wife. The unshorn miner then called her sister, and as she hung upon his neck she thanked God that the same hour had sent her a husband and a brother.

Brigham sent for his child, which had been left in New Orleans, purchased a tract of land in Los Angelos county and is now a wealthy and respected resident of that region of the vine and fig tree. Farley is still a miner in "Old Tuolume," and "Old Kaintuck," as the world reverently learned to call him, was killed by the Klamath Indians in 1855.

Extravagance of the Age.

A shrewd writer, who is in the habit of telling home-truths which go direct to the heart of the popular follies of the day, has the following in relation to the pernicious system of domestic education, so prevalent at the present time:

"In the town of Somewhere lives M. Manygirls. He is a toilsome merchant, his wife a hard-working housekeeper. Once they were poor, but now they are ruinously rich. They have seven daughters, whom they train up in utter idleness; they spend much money, but not in works of humanity, not even in elegant accomplishments—in painting, dancing, music and the like, and so paying in spiritual beauty what they take in material means; they never read nor sing; they are know-nothings, and only in vain show, as useless as a ghost, and as ignorant as the blocks on which their bonnets are made. Now, these seven 'ladies,' as the newspapers call the poor things, so ignorant and helpless, are not only idle, can earn nothing, but consume much. What a load of finery is on their shoulders and heads and necks. Mr. Manygirls hires many men an women to wait on his daughters' idleness, and these servants are withdrawn from productive work in nursing these seven grown-up babies.

"On the other side of the way, the Hon. Mr. Manysons has seven sons, who are the exact match for the merchant's daughters: rich, idle, some of them dissolute; debauchery coming before their beard; all useless, earn nothing, spending much, wasting more. The only labor is to kill time; and in the summer they emigrate from pond to pond, having a fishing line with a worm at one end and a fool at the other. These are fast families in Somewhere. Their idleness is counted pleasure. Six of these sons will marry, and perhaps five of Manygirls' daughters, and what families they will found to live on the toil of their grandfather's bones; until a commercial crisis and the wear and tear of time has dissipated their fortunes and they are forced reluctantly to toil.

"Besides, there is an enormous waste of food, fuel, clothing, of everything. We are the least economical, civilized people on earth. Of course the poor are wasteful everywhere; they do not know how to economize, and they have not the means. They must live from hand to mouth, and half what is put into the hand perishes before it reaches the mouth. So likewise are the rich wasteful who have inherited money; almost never sure as have earned it. The great mass of the people are not economical, but wasteful. It is the habit of the whole country."

"Orashun" by Artemus Ward.

Ime a Union man. I luv this Union from the Bottom of my Hart. I luv every hoop pole in Maine, and every sheep ranche in Texas. The cow pasters of New Hampshire is as deer to A. Ward as the rice plantashuns of Mississippi. There is mean critters in both of them air States, and there is likewise good and troo. It don't look very pretty for a lot of inflammetary individooals who never lifted their hands in defence of Ameriky, or did the fust thing towards sekewrin our independence, to git their backs up and sware they'll dissolve the Union. Too much good blud wos spilt in courtin and marryin that hily respectable femail, the Goddess of Liberty, to git a divorce from her at this late day. The old lady has behaved herself too well to cast her off now, at the request of a parsul of addle-brained men and wimin, who never did nobody no good, and never will agin.—Ime sorry the picturs of the Goddess never giv her no shoes or stockings, but the band of stars around her head must continur to shine briter so long as this Erth revolves on her axle tree. [The wether was all-fired hot, & a man at this pint of the orashun fell down sun stroke. I told the aujience that considerin the large number of powerful hansum gals present, I was more afraid of a dawtur stroke. The joke was impromptu, and amused the aujience wery much.]

To ressoom—G. Washington was a clear-heded, warm-hearted, brave and stiddy-goin man. He never SLOPT OVER! The prevailin weakness of most public men is to SLOP OVER! [Put them words in large letters A W.] They Rush Things. They travel too much on the high preshur principle. They git onto the popular hobby hoss who trots along, not caring a sent whether the beest is ever goin, clear sited and sound, or spavined, blind and bawky. Of course they get throwed eventooally, if not sooner. When they see the multitood goin it blind, they go Pel Mel with it instid of exertin themselves to set it right. They can't see that the krowd which is now bearing them triumphantly on its shoulders, will soon diskiver its error, and cast them into the hoss pond of Oblivyum without the slighest hesitashun. Washington never slopt over. That wasn't George's style. He luved his country deerly. He wasn't after the spiles. He was a human angel in a 3 cornered hat and nee britches, and we shant see his like right away.—My friends, we can't all be Washingtons, but we can be patriots, and behave ourselves in a human & Christian manner. When we see a brother goin down hill to Ruin, let us not give him a push, but let us seize right hold of his coat tails and drag him back to Morality.

☞ A rich affair took place on a train of cars running from Cleveland to Columbus, Ohio, not long ago. On the cars was a culprit on his way to serve his term in the Penitentiary, and one of the real genus Yankee. The following colloquy took place:

"Goin' ter Klumbus?"
"Yes." (Gruffly.)
"Goin' any further?"
"No."
"Goin' ter stop in Klumbus?"
"Yes."
"Goin' ter see any friends there?"
"No."
"Goin' ter do enny kind o' work there?"
"Yes."
"Goin' ter start business on yer own hook?"
"No."
"What are ye goin' there fur?"
"Going for seven years!"

The Yankee's curiosity was almost satisfied.

"The scarlet fever and whooping cough, and I don't know what he hadn't had, poor little darling. This is the first time I've taken him out at all since"—

"The Mexican War, which I consider perfectly unjustifiable, unless it be on the ground that"—

"The preacher has come," exclaimed a boy, and depositing my report in my pocket, I proceeded into the school-house to muse on the utility of phonography.

Wouldn't Own Up.

Joe Stetson was a wild, rolicking fellow, who spent most of his time in drinking and spreeing, while his wife, Polly, was left at home to do the chores. Upon a certain occasion Joe left home, to be back, as he said, that night. Night came, but Joe did not. The next day passed, but, about sunset, Joe came up in the worst condition imaginable—his clothes dirty and torn, one eye in deep mourning, and his face presenting more the appearance of a piece of raw beef than anything else. Polly met him at the door, and, noticing his appearance, exclaimed:

"Why, Joe, what in the world is the matter?"

"Polly," said Joe, "do you remember long Jim Andrews? Well, him and me had an awful fight."

"Who whipped, Joe?" asked Polly.

"Polly, we had the hardest fight you ever did see. I hit him and he hit me, and then we clinched. Polly, ain't supper most ready? I ain't had nothin' to eat since yesterday morning."

"But tell me who whipped, Joe," continued Polly.

"Polly," replied Joe, "I tell you, you never did see such a fight as me and him had.—When he clinched me I jerked loose from him, and then gin three or four the most sufficientest licks you ever heard of. Polly, ain't supper ready? I'm nearly starved."

"Do tell me who whipped, will you?" continued Polly.

"Polly," said Joe, "you don't know nothin' 'bout fightin'. I tell you we fought like tigers; we rolled and we tumbled—first him on top, then me on top—then the boys would pat me on the shoulder, and hollow, 'Oh, my! Stetson!' We gouged, and bit and tore up the dirt in Seth Runnell's grocery yard worse nor two bulls. Polly, ain't supper ready? I'm monstrous hungry."

"Joe Stetson!" said Polly, in a tone bristling with anger, "will you tell me who whipped?"

"Polly," said Joe, drawing a long sigh, "I hollered!"

A TOUCHING ANECDOTE.—Hon. A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, in a recent address at a meeting in Alexandria, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum and free schools of that city, related the following anecdote:

"A poor little boy, in a cold night in June, with no home or roof to shelter his head, no maternal or parental guardian or guide to protect or direct him on his way, reached, at nightfall, the house of a rich planter, who took him in, fed, lodged and sent him on his way with his blessing. These kind attentions cheered his heart, and inspired him with fresh courage to battle with the obstacles of life. Years rolled around; Providence led him on; he had reached the legal profession; his host had died; the cormorants that prey on the substance of man, had formed a conspiracy to get from the widow her estates.—She sent for the nearest counsel to commit her cause to him, and that counsel proved to be the orphan boy years before welcomed and entertained by her deceased husband.—The stimulus of a warm and tenacious gratitude was now added to the ordinary motives connected with the profession. He undertook her cause with a will not easily to be resisted; he gained it; the widow's estates were secured to her in perpetuity; and," Mr. Stephens added, with an emphasis of emotion that sent its electric thrill throughout the house, "that orphan boy stands before you!"

IT is not worth your while to hate. Your life is not long enough to make it pay to cherish ill will or hard thoughts towards any one. What if that man has cheated you, or that woman has played you false? What if this friend has forsaken you in your time of need, or that one having won your utmost confidence and warmest love, has concluded that he prefers to consider and treat you as a stranger? Let it all pass. What difference will it make to you in a few years, when you go hence to the undiscovered country." All who ill-treat you now will be more sorry for it then, than you even in your deepest disappointment and grief can be.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

Resolved, That the election of a State Delegate and Conferees to select a Senatorial Delegate to the next Democratic State Convention, be postponed until the first week of January Court next, and that this Convention adjourn to meet again at that time, and that the Chairman issue a call for the same at the proper time.

In accordance with the foregoing Resolution, passed by the Democratic County Convention in August last, the Delegates composing said Convention, are requested to re-assemble at the Court House, in Huntingdon, on the evening of the second Wednesday of January next, for the purpose of transacting the business therein set forth, and any other business that may be deemed necessary.

D. HOUTZ, Chairman.

Congress.—Up to yesterday, no organization of the House had taken place. For Speaker, Sherman, Republican, has continued to lead, but lacks four votes to elect.—Bocock, Administration Democrat, has received 84 votes—leaving 34 Democrats and Americans voting scattering.

☞ The miscreants who do up the editorials for Colon's organ, are boiling over with rage, simply because they have failed to persuade us into the belief that they are honest Democrats. In their last issue they give their readers a column of facts and falsehoods, to prove that we have not been true to Democratic principles. They say we did not give our support to the State nominees in '58 and '59! Very true. And the money offered us by Colon could not buy us to advocate the election of a man we could not think worthy the support of Democrats. In '58, Porter and Frost were pledged to sustain the National Administration in all its corruptions and proscriptions. In '59, the State ticket was placed upon the same platform. We could not give either our support, and did not, as our readers well know. We deceived no man in either campaign—and shall not deceive any man in the one fast approaching. One thing we can promise now—we shall never support a James Buchanan a second time.

The Union's assertion that we are for Cameron for the Presidency, is in character with most it says. Cameron is a politician, and is about as honest in politics as James Buchanan and most other leading politicians. He might be our choice rather than see an Abolitionist or a Southern Disunionist likely to fill the Presidential chair. But we feel very confident that the Charleston Convention will give us a true Democrat, one we can support and one the United Democracy will elect, without the aid of the Black Republican editors of the Union.

Chips.

☞ The P. O. Organ says we called on Simon Cameron when he stopped at this place in '58. A slight mistake. We have not spoken to Cameron for twelve years—and know less of his political character than we do of any connected with the Union. Simon could buy all its editors for a very small sum, but he is sharp enough to avoid a purchase of "dead stock."

☞ During the campaign of '58, one of the candidates [Wm. A. Porter,] on the State ticket spent several days in town; but no mention of his visit ever appeared in the Globe. And last fall the candidate [R. L. Wright,] for Auditor General was in town twice, but the Globe never knew it."
—The Union alias P. O. Organ

Thank you, for giving us a call, to explain! When Judge Porter was in town, he called to see us, and requested us NOT to take any notice of his visit, as some people might think he was on an electioneering visit. Of course we complied with the Judge's request, and never mentioned that he visited our town.

Mr. R. L. Wright, visited our town on the day of the meeting of our County Convention. He did not call on us—not owing him anything we did not call on him. He took a side-seat in the Convention to see how things would move off, but had scarcely got seated when his particular friend from Jackson township made a motion for the purpose of ascertaining whether the Globe was recognized as an organ of the party. Mr. Wright inquired who the gentleman was, and when informed that the delegate was one of his simon-pure friends, he replied that he desired to have but a very few such friends, and left the room, and the town in the first passing train.

Colon about.—The Union is now engaged in publishing a number of FACTS IF TRUE, which will not astonish the nation in the least if they should not be true.

☞ Our friend Colon will soon discover that he is not the Post Master General—and that his little lap dog "Brucey," may not be able to bark loud enough to prevent his removal. The Huntingdon Office is the only "fat" Post Office in the county, and it is right that the Democratic party of the county should be consulted as to the proper person to fill it and receive the profits. Some months ago a gentleman of town and a man of family, spoke of making application to the Department for the office, but no sooner did Colon hear of the movement, than he called upon the gentleman and informed him that he could not be removed,—that him and Bruce had more influence at Washington than all other Democrats in the county—and that no one but a personal friend of his could get the office after he was done with it. Quite a bold assertion for such a man, yet he may have spoken the truth, for smaller men in the Democratic party, and even Opposition men, have had influence with the present powers-that-be, while those who fought hardest in the great battle of '56 for the success of Democratic principles have been treated with less respect than the vilest Black Abolitionist.

A few days ago we saw three or four petitions numerously signed and by some of the most prominent Democrats in the county, some of whom are P. M's., asking for the removal of Colon, for very good reasons. Our friend Colon must get on the track of these petitions, or the Department will open his eyes some morning before he gets out of bed.

☞ Little "Brucey," the "little member," has been greatly agitated since the public have found out that he tried to pass himself off for a gentleman up North, with borrowed passes. He feels that he is about a feet smaller than he used to be when in company where he was not known. He has promised, with the assistance of that other lawyer (?) to write down all our friends. Wonder where he has buried his dead.

☞ The Legislature of Kentucky, on Monday last, elected Hon. John C. Breckinridge United States Senator. His majority was twenty-nine. We rejoice to record the fact.

☞ The Boston Journal announces the organization of another expedition for the purpose of pursuing the explorations of Dr. Kane, which will probably start in the spring, and be under the command of Dr. Hayes, the surgeon of the Kane expedition. The amount required is about $30,000, and liberal subscriptions have already been made. Many of the scientific societies are actively enlisted in the enterprise, and have appointed committees to promote it. Dr. Hayes is led to undertake the command by his confidence in the correctness of the views entertained by Dr. Kane, whose verification was only prevented by a series of extraordinary accidents which could not have been foreseen.

Execution at Charlestown.

Daring Attempt of Cook and Coppie to escape—An Exciting Time—The Town again at Fever-Heat—The Penalty at Last Paid—Copeland and Green Hung in the Morning, and Cook and Coppie in the Afternoon—Firmness of the Condemned on the Scaffold.

Charlestown, Dec. 16.—We have had an exciting time during the past twenty-four hours, which has just closed with the execution of the four prisoners.

The prisoners were visited yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Messrs. Watson, Dutton, and North, of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Beverly Waugh, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The services in the cells were of an interesting and solemn character, and were participated in by all the condemned; though it is now evident, from subsequent events, that Cook and Coppie, at least were "playing possum," as their minds must have been fixed on the hopes of life and liberty, rather than death and eternity, at the time they were making outward protestations of resignation. They all gave an unqualified assent to the conviction of religious truth, and each expressed a hope of salvation in the world to come. Cook and Coppie were the loudest in their professions of a change of heart, and in the hope of Divine forgiveness. They freely admitted their guilt, and acknowledged their doom a just one, and that in the main, they have been treated with the utmost kindness by all, though they thought that some of the witnesses were rather harsh in their testimony.

The ministers imagined that they had discovered a decidedly favorable change in the condition of Cook's mind since his interview with his sisters. Up to that time his calmness and bravery were regarded as proceeding from a lack of feeling; but on leaving him yesterday afternoon they reported that he had been led to seek forgiveness in his protestations of religious convictions and hopes of forgiveness—all of which was undoubtedly intended to hoodwink their project of escape.

Cook has been visited throughout his imprisonment by the Rev. N. Green North, at the request of the prisoner, as also of Governors Wise and Willard.

Rev. Mr. North was present at an interview between Coppie and Mr. Butler, a Quaker gentleman from Ohio who raised the prisoner. He describes the interview as an affecting one, and speaks highly of Mr. Butler's Christian deportment and advice to the prisoner. Mr. Butler says that Coppie was a trusty but very willful boy An uncle of Coppie of the same name, from Ohio—his father's brother—also visited him yesterday, the interview lasting over an hour. He seemed in much distress at the sad fate that awaits his relative.

This was the condition of the town, the prisoners and the military, up to seven o'clock last evening. All apprehensions of an intended rescue had long since been banished, and nothing was thought of but the approaching execution, whilst the overflowing throng of strangers were hunting quarters for the night.

The bar-rooms were all crowded with people discussing the resignation of the prisoners to their fate; and so firmly had this conviction settled in the public mind, that military duty was voted a bore, and the finale of the tragedy was regarded as at last approached.

The supper table at the Carter House was crowded for the fifth or sixth time, and all was moving on calmly and quietly up to 8 o'clock, when an alarm was given, and the whole town was thrown into commotion.

THE ATTEMPTED ESCAPE.

At quarter past eight o'clock last evening the whole town was thrown into commotion by the report of a rifle, under the jail walls, followed by several other shots from the vicinity of the guard-house, in close proximity of the jail.

The military was called to arms, and the excitement was intense—beyond anything that has yet occurred during our ever memorable era of military occupation.

In a few minutes the streets and avenues of the town were in possession of armed men, and it was with some difficulty that the cause of all this turmoil could be ascertained.

Rumors of every description were afloat, and it was at one time thought that the prisoners had over powered their guards and made their escape, and then that an attack had been made on the jail by parties attempting to rescue the prisoners.

It was dangerous for a citizen to go out to ascertain the true cause of the excitement, and rumors of the most extensive character floated in to be contradicted the next moment by citizens who had been driven in from the streets.

The sentinel stationed near the jail, reported that at a quarter past eight o'clock, he observed a man on the jail wall whom he challenged and receiving no answer, fired at him. The head of another man was also seen above the wall, but he retreated as soon as the first one had been fired at. The man on the top of the wall seemed at first determined to persist, and was about making an attempt to jump down when the sentinel declared his intention of impaling him on his bayonet. He then retreated into the jail yard with Coppie, and both gave themselves up without further resistance. Cook afterwards remarked, that if he could have got over and throttled the guard, he would have made his escape. They had succeeded, after two weeks' labor, whenever alone, and at night, when their bed clothing muffled the sounds of a saw, which they had made out of an old Barlow knife, in cutting through their iron shackles, so that they could pry them off at any moment they should have their other work completed. They had also made a sort of chisel out of an old bed screw, with which they succeeded, as opportunity would offer, in removing the plaster from the wall, and then brick after brick, until a space sufficient for them to pass through was opened, all except the removal of the outer brick.

The part of the wall on which they operated, was in the rear of the beds on which they slept, and the beds being pushed against the wall completely hid their work from view.—The bricks they took out were concealed in the drum of a stove, and the dirt and plaster removed in the course of their work, was placed between the bed clothes. They acknowledged that they had been at work a whole week in making the aperture in the wall. Their cell being on the first floor, the aperture was not more than five feet above the pavement of the yard, and when freed of their shackles, their access to the yard was quite easy. Here, however, was a smooth brick wall, about fifteen feet high, to scale. This difficulty was, however, soon overcome with the aid of the timbers of the scaffold on which Captain Brown was hung, and which were intended for their execution on the succeeding day. They placed these against the wall, and soon succeeded in reaching the top, from which they could have easily dropped to the other side, had not the vigilance of the sentinel on duty so quickly checked their movements.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE EXECUTION.

At day break this morning the reveille was sounded from the various barracks, announcing the dawn of the day of execution, and soon the whole community was astir.

At 9 o'clock the entire military force in attendance was formed on Main street, and the officers reported themselves at headquarters for duty. The companies detailed for field duty around the gallows, immediately took up the line of March, and at half past 9 o'clock, were in the positions assigned them on the field. The companies detailed for escort duty, took up their positions in front of the jail, awaiting orders.

EXECUTION OF COPELAND AND GREEN.

At half past 10 o'clock, Gen. Taliaferro, with his staff, numbering twenty-five officers, having given orders to prepare the two negro prisoners, Shields Green and John Copeland, for execution, took their departure to join the main body of troops on the field.—The military then formed a hollow square around the jail, and an open wagon, containing the coffins of the prisoners drew up in front, with a carriage to convey Sheriff Campbell and his deputies. The crowd of citizens and strangers was very great—at least five times as numerous as on the occasion of Brown's execution—most of whom were already on the field, whilst others waited to see the prisoners brought out.

The religious ceremonies in the cell were very impressive. At a quarter before 11 o'clock, the prisoners, accompanied by Sheriff Campbell and the Rev. Mr. North appeared at the jail door, and with their arms pinioned moved slowly toward the vehicle in waiting for them. They seemed downcast, and wore some of that calm, tearless spirit evinced by Brown under similar circumstances. They were helped into the wagon, and took seats on the coffins without scarcely looking to the right or left. The escort now commenced to move, the wagon being closely flanked on either side by a company of riflemen, marching in double file and lock step.

At seven minutes before 11 o'clock, the procession entered the field occupied by the military, and the prisoners cast a shuddering glance towards the gallows erected on the rising ground in its centre. In two minutes more the wagon stopped at the foot of the gallows, and whilst the prisoners were alighting, the companies, forming the escort, moved off to the position assigned them on the field.

The prisoners mounted the scaffold with a firm step, and were immediately joined by Sheriff Campbell. After a brief prayer by one of the clergymen, the caps were drawn over their heads, and the ropes adjusted around their necks. During the few moments they thus stood, Copeland remained quiet, but Green was engaged in earnest prayer up to the moment the trap was drawn, and they were launched into eternity. Green died very easy, his neck being broken by the fall, and the motion of his body was very slight. Copeland seemed to suffer very much, and his body writhed in violent contortions, for several minutes. They were accompanied on the gallows by the Rev. Messrs. Waugh, North and Lehr, to whom they bid an affectionate farewell, and expressed the hope of meeting them in Heaven.

The bodies after being cut down were placed in poplar coffins, and carried back to the jail. They will be interred to-morrow, on the spot where the gallows stands, though there is a party of medical students here from Winchester who will, doubtless, not allow them to remain there long.

EXECUTION OF COOK AND COPPIE.

The bodies of the two negro prisoners having been brought back to the jail at about a quarter to 12 o'clock, notice was given to Cook and Coppie that there time was approaching, only one hour more being allowed them. The military movements similar to those at the first execution were repeated, and a wagon with two more coffins was standing at the door of the jail at half past 12 o'clock. The same military escort was in readiness. Meanwhile the closing religious ceremonies were progressing in the cell.—Since the failure of the attempt of Cook and Coppie to escape last night, their assumed composure and apparent resignation had given way, and they now looked at the reality of their fate with the full conviction of its awful certainty. They were reserved and rather quiet, but joined with fervor in the religious ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Messrs. North, Lehr and Waugh. When called upon by the Sheriff, they stood calm and quietly whilst their arms were being pinioned, and after bidding farewell to the guards of the jail, were helped into the wagon, and took seats on their coffins. Their appearance was rather that of hopeless despair than of resignation, and they seemed to take but little notice of anything as the procession slowly moved on to the field of death.

The wagon reached the scaffold at thirteen minutes before one o'clock, and the prisoners ascended with a determined firmness scarcely surpassed by that of Capt. Brown. A brief prayer was offered up by one of the clergymen, the ropes were adjusted, the caps drawn over their heads, and both were launched into eternity in seven minutes after they ascended the gallows. They both exhibited the most unflinching firmness, saying nothing with the exception of bidding farewell to the ministers and sheriff.

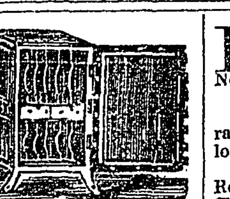

After the rope was adjusted about Cook's neck, he exclaimed, "Be quick—as quick as possible," which was also repeated by Coppie. After hanging about thirty minutes both bodies were taken down and placed in black walnut coffins prepared for them.—That of Cook was then placed in a poplar box, labelled, and directed as follows:

"Ashbell P. Willard and Robert Crowley, 104 William street, New York, care of Adams' Express.

The coffin of Coppie was placed in a similar box, to be forwarded to his mother in Iowa.

A New Half Dollar.—A new half dollar has been got up at the United States Mint in Philadelphia, to be submitted to the government for its approval. The new coin, although of the same diameter as that now in circulation, is much thicker at the rim in consequence of the deeper sinking of the die, and hence much more endurable. On the one side is the medium portrait of Washington, with the head wreathed in laurel; the word Liberty upon a scroll over the bust; at the bottom the date 1859, and around the whole United States of America, in plain well adapted raised letters. On the reverse side, a wreath of grain, envelopes the words Half Dollar, in the same letters.

EVANS & WATSON'S SALAMANDER SAFES,
304 Chestnut Street,
PHILADELPHIA.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH!

Philadelphia, Sept. 29, 1859.

To the President of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society:—The subscribers, your committee to examine the contents of a Salamander Safe, of Evans & Watson, after being exposed to a strong fire on the Fair Grounds for eight hours, respectfully represent—

That after seven cords of oak wood and three of pine had been consumed around the Safe, it was opened in the presence of the committee, and the contents taken out, a little warmed, but not even scorched.

Several Silver Medals heretofore received by the manufacturers, and a large quantity of documents were in the Safe, and came out entirely uninjured.

The experiment satisfied us of the capacity of Safes of this kind to protect contents from any fire to which they may be exposed.

The Committee awarded a Diploma and Silver Medal.

STILL ANOTHER.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 17, 1859.—Messrs. Evans & Watson, Philadelphia.

Gentlemen:—The Salamander Fire-Proof Safe of your manufacture, purchased by us from your Agent, Ferris & Garrett, of our city, some nine months ago, was severely tried by burglars last Saturday night, and although they had a sledge hammer, cold chisels, drill and gunpowder, they did not succeed in opening the Safe. The lock being one of "Hall's Patent Powder-proof," they could not get the powder into it, but drilled a hole in the lower panel and forced in a large charge, which was ignited, and although the door, inside and out, showed the explosion not to have been a small one, it was not forced open. We suppose they were the greater part of the night at work on it. We are much gratified at the result of the attempt to enter it, and if the above facts are of any service, you are at liberty to use them. Yours, truly,
BAYNARD & JONES.

GREAT FIRE!—ANOTHER TRIUMPH!!

Knoxville, Tennessee, March 13th, 1859.
Messrs. EVANS & WATSON, Philadelphia:

Gentlemen—It affords me great pleasure to say to you that the Salamander Safe which I purchased of you in February, 1858, proved to be what you recommended it—a sure protection from fire. My storehouse, together with several others, was burned to the ground in March last.—The Safe fell through into the cellar, and was exposed to intense heat for six or eight hours, and when it was taken from the ruins and opened, all its contents where found to be in a perfect state, the books and the papers not being injured any whatever. I can cheerfully recommend your Safes to the community, believing, as I do, that they are as near fire-proof as it is possible for any Safe to be made.
THOMAS J. POWELL.

☞ A large assortment of the above SAFES always on hand, at 304 Chestnut street, (late 24 South Fourth street,) Philadelphia. [Nov. 16, 1859.]

THE HUNTINGDON GLOBE, A DEMOCRATIC FAMILY JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS, &C.

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, Dec. 21, 1859.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—We scarcely ever open an exchange paper but what we see recorded, accidents from the explosion of fluid lamps, and now it becomes our sad duty to chronicle a shocking case which happened on Friday evening last, at Elizabethtown, eighteen miles below Harrisburg, to a young and promising lad, named Alfred McCallister, of this place, who had gone there for the purpose of attending the telegraph office for a few days. He was in the act of changing the wires for some purpose or other, and had the lamp in his left hand, and whilst he was working with the wires, it exploded; he threw it from him, and in its course, it struck another fluid vessel close by, which contained about a quart of the fiery element, exploding it also, and burning young McCallister's face and hands in a most shocking manner. A boy that was in the office with him at the time, and who was standing near the fluid vessel, was also seriously burned. The noise of the explosion brought timely assistance, and the flames were speedily extinguished, otherwise the whole building would have been consumed, for the lads were so badly burned, that they were unable to extinguish the fire. Young McCallister was brought home on Sunday morning, and is recovering slowly, although he is unable to see, his eyes being so badly scorched, that it is feared he will be deprived of sight. This is another warning to those who burn fluid. Persons cannot be too careful how they use this distructive, disastrous and ignitable combustible.

CHRISTMAS.—To our readers, one and all. Before we shall again greet you with our weekly budget of news, Christmas will have come and gone. To one and all of you, we wish a merry Christmas. Another year has rolled around, and still we are at the helm, steering our little craft boldly up the channel of truth and fidelity, and ever battling against the evil tide of men. Many have come and gone during the year, and some of us, perhaps, can look back on the past with pleasure, and wish the days gone by could be re-called again, whilst others view the past with remorse and regret. To the first, we say all hail! With the latter, we sincerely sympathize. Another year has almost ended, and we find ourselves so much nearer the brink of death. May the kind Providence who has watched over us thus far in our lives, still keep an eye single to our well-being.

ROBBER ARRESTED.—On Monday morning last, a fellow giving the name of B. Thompson, was arrested near Bloody Run, for stealing goods on Thursday evening last, from the store of Simon Cohn, & co., of Hopewell township, this county. The following articles were found on the person of the thief, but no owners, have, as yet, claimed them: one gold hunting-cased watch, three pair boots, one revolver, two new and two old vests, several boxes of knives, a number of keys, and a number of gentlemen's hair combs. The above named articles are at the office of Esquire Snare, where they can be seen and will be returned to the owners, on their proving property, &c. The scoundrel had a hearing before Esquire Snare, and in the default of bail, was committed to the stone institution at the head of Smith street, to await his trial at the next Quarter Sessions.

THE PLACE TO GET HOLIDAY GIFTS.—A new and handsome stock of Books, Stationery, Gold Pens, Pencils, Money Purses, Pocket Books, Games, Conversation and Award Cards, and a variety of articles suitable for Holiday Gifts, have just been received at LEWIS' cheap Book, Stationery and Music Store. Old and young cannot fail to be pleased. His stock of books for the young cannot be beat. Call and please your children.

☞ We learn from the last Tyrone Star, that John Culvert, the Fostoria foundling, died on the 9th inst., of scarlet fever. The Star adds: "The poor babe found its last resting-place in the same grave with a child of its foster-parents, (Mr. and Mrs. John D. Miller,) that had been stricken down the day before. In death as in life, the foundling was treated as their own offspring."

☞ We are informed that a second edition of the Young American Lancers will make their appearance on Monday next, under the command of General Watson, our present Sheriff. Go in boys. You did finely on the Fourth of July, and we have every reason to think you can even excel your former debut. We like to see boys dressed up a la soldier.

CONCERT POSTPONED.—The concert by the Continentals, proposed to be given on the 23rd inst., for the benefit of the Baptist Church, is postponed indefinitely, it having been found that the said evening would be an unfavorable time. Due notice will be given for some other evening.

☞ Next Sunday is Christmas, and nobody has said Turkey to us yet. Hope we are not entirely forgotten by our poultry growing friends. Bring on your turkeys, or we will have to call on our keeper for one, to make our Christmas dinner go down right. Don't all speak at once.

☞ New or old Books, single or in lots, furnished to order at Lewis' Book Store, at less than city or country retail prices.

☞ An election will be held at the office of J. Simpson Africa, Esq., on Monday, the 2d of January next, for the purpose of choosing five Managers for the Huntingdon Gas Company, for the ensuing year. The stockholders will please attend between the hours of one and four, P. M., on that day.

CONCERT.—We understand that the Continentals, accompanied by Prof. Coyle and some of his pupils, purpose giving a grand soiree in Petersburg on Saturday evening a week, —night before New Year's Day. We predict for them a crowded house and a galorious time.

OUR NEW SIGN.—On Monday last, we had a beautiful new sign put up in front of our Book, Stationery and Music Store. It was designed and gotten up by Mr. Adam Hoffman, of this place, and in our opinion, is rather a neat affair.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GLOBE.

The Farmer's High School.

Every individual in this commonwealth who has a single wish for the general good, the improvement of the intellect, and a relief from the slavery and drudgery of fruitless toil, will watch with anxious care the progress—the growth and prosperity of the Farmer's High School. The advancement already made by those having the work in charge, is generally understood from its published reports. Even that advancement has required a struggle, a vigorous effort. I have listened with attention to the arrangements, and wished success to all that has been promised by its sanguine friends; but to some extent, have doubted the realization of those results which would be so desirable. If it were possible to select from the rising sons of toil, those who have, or who may acquire a desire to apply scientific truths to the cultivation of the earth, or to any commendable branch of industry, then the result need not be feared or doubted. For it would matter very little in that event, what deficiencies or delinquencies were found elsewhere, the genius of these intellectual and physical giants would sustain them, and the institution, with its glorious results, would rise above every obstacle. But if this school will have no means for protecting itself from imposition, i. e. if it is to be accessible by those who live to idle away life, who cannot be made to feel that there is a dignity and pleasure in labor; if it is to be filled to any considerable extent by the scape-goats and scape-graces of indolence or licentiousness, then all that the State, all that its friends, and all that an able faculty can do, will be comparatively fruitless.

The experiment is now begun; one year has elapsed; the index on the dial counts one. The result still carries its doubts. As has been the case in all other institutions of learning, the students of this are subjected to corrupt associations, the blight and mildew of student life. One example will be sufficient to indicate the character of the present class of students. At the close of the session last week, some fifty or sixty found it convenient to pass through our county en route for the R. Road and their homes. About fifty called at a highly respectable hotel, registered their names, called for supper, and a part of them for rooms. The stay was characterized by drunkenness, profanity, and confusion, and their departure by a non-payment of bills by about a dozen of the party.

If the institution was a reform school, those dozen would doubtless be its proper inmates, but as it was and is intended to be the fountain from which knowledge is to flow to all parts of the State, to keep its current clear from such influences, will be a matter of no small account. At spes non fracta.

INTERESTING POST-OFFICE DECISION.—Postmaster-General Holt has recently decided an interesting and novel question. A husband, who had been separated from his wife, demanded that his village Post-master should deliver her letters to him, and threatened a suit at law. The wife on the other hand, forbade the delivery of her letters to the husband. In these circumstances, the Postmaster appealed to Mr. Holt for instructions.—That officer pronounces the claim advanced by the husband too preposterous to be seriously refuted. Indeed, he says it is abhorrent to law as it is to Christian civilization of the age, and he directs the Postmaster to deliver the letters to the wife.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,

PREPARED BY DR. C. M. JACKSON,

WILL EFFECTUALLY CURE

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver or Stomach.

Every family should have a bottle of these Bitters in the house.

ONE DOSE will instantly relieve a sick stomach.

ONE DOSE will cure the most distressing heartburn.

ONE DOSE will allay any agitation of the nerves.

ONE DOSE taken an hour before meals, will give a good appetite.

ONE DOSE will, in many cases, cure the most severe headache, when proceeding from a disordered stomach.

These Bitters can be obtained at any Druggist's or seller of Patent Medicines in the United States and Canadas. Price 75 cents per bottle. See that the signature of C. M. Jackson is on the wrapper of each bottle.

BENEVOLENCE.

We do not think a person can evince a more benevolent trait of character than being moved at the distress and suffering of others, and furthermore, anxious to do all in their power to alleviate by every possible means human suffering. In this view of the case, we do not know how the humane and benevolent can do an action more in accordance with their philanthropic views, than by calling the attention of their afflicted friends and acquaintances to the fact, that Dr. SETH S. HANCE, of 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., has discovered a preparation, which is put up in the form of a pill, that has a specific action for curing Epilepsy, or falling fits, spasms, cramps, and all forms of nervous diseases. Among those who have been permanently cured, we might mention a member of the family of James H. Beadle, Huntsville, Alabama; Mr. M. P. Sledge, Cabin Point, Surry county, Va., and Mr. W. P. Ligon, Grenada, Missouri. We might go on enumerating a number of others, until we had entirely filled up this column of our paper; but we think we have said sufficient to satisfy every person that the subject under consideration is one of vital importance to every one. Reader! if you are a well man or woman, and have no need of a remedy, perhaps you know some person who is not equally blessed as yourself, if so, cut out this notice, and send it to him or her. It will cost you but little trouble, and probably it will make you instrumental in curing some poor, afflicted mortal of that dreadful visitation, Epilepsy or falling sickness.

Dr. Hance sends his pills by mail, free of postage, to all parts of the world, on the receipt of a remittance. His prices are: one box, $3; two, $5; twelve, $24. We have given his address above.

DIED,

PHILADELPHIA MARKETS.

MONDAY, Dec. 19.—The Flour market remains inactive, and the sales confined to the wants of the trade at prices within the range of $5,25@5,50 for superfine, $5,62½@5,87½ for extras, $6@6.50 for family, and $6.75@7 ₱ bbl for fancy lots as in quality. There is very little inquiry for shipment, and standard brands are held at $5,37½@5,50 ₱ bbl, the latter for good straight lots. Rye Flour is selling in a small way at $4,37½. Corn Meal is but little inquired for, and Penna is scarce and firm at $3,75 ₱ bbl. Wheat—There is not much offering to-day, and prices rather favor the buyers, some 3,000 bus prime Penna red only, having been disposed of at 134@135c. White is held at 145@150c, and little or nothing doing. Rye continues in demand and scarce at 93c for Penna, and 90c for Delaware. Corn is active and bringing rather better prices; 6,000 bus new yellow sold at 73@76c for damp, 77c for fair and 80@81c for dry lots at the depot. Oats are steady at 43½c for Delaware, and 45c for Penna, but there is not much doing.

ATTENTION!

The officers of the 4th Brigade 14th Division of P. V., are hereby ordered to meet in Huntingdon, on Friday, the 30th inst., at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of having an Officer's drill, &c. Capt. Dare will furnish music, and Capt. Johnston will furnish arms and accoutrements.

LATEST BY PENAGRAPH.—

The Harpers Ferry excitement is over, Old Brown is dead, or soon will be, quiet is again restored, and the citizens of Huntingdon are out of danger. The undersigned would therefore respectfully inform the citizens of this place and vicinity that he will be happy to wait on them at his old stand in the Diamond, (just where it used to be,) with choice groceries, confects, fruit, flour, &c., &c., all of which he will be pleased to exchange for cash or country produce at cash prices.

His old friends are always welcome and new ones invited.

He is also agent for T. H. Willson & Co.'s Premium Telegraph Fodder Cutter and Male's Combined Cider Mill and Corn Sheller. As labor saving and economical machines, they are invaluable, and farmers and others interested would do well to call and examine for themselves.

Scissorings.

WIT once bought, is worth twice taught.

"LET 'em rip!" as the boy said when he tore his trowserloons.

THE young lady who saw a baby without kissing it has acknowledged that her friend's bonnet is handsomer than her own.

THERE is only one objection to people who "mean well," and that is they never can spare time to carry out their meaning.

ADVICE to young men—live temperately—go to church—attend to your affairs—love all the pretty girls—marry one of them—live like a man, and die like a Christian.

SOME think that since the triumph of the Yankees in steaming and sailing, Yankee-doodle-do, should be changed in England to Yankee-doodle-DID.

BE ever kind to woman. She is the mother, sister, daughter, and companion, without whom life would be intolerable to man.

IT takes three editors to start a paper in New Orleans—one to get killed in a duel, one to die of yellow fever, and one to write an obituary of the defunct two.

A MAN has just published a book, advising all men "to mind their own business." Why doesn't he mind his instead of telling other people what to do?

THE meanest man in the world is in London. He buttons his shirt with wafers, and looks at his money through a magnifying glass to make half-dimes look as big as quarters.

A LOAFER happened in one of the printing offices at Boston, a day or two ago, and asked "what's the news?"

"Two dollars a year in advance," was the reply. He subscribed.

SAY, Sammy, why don't your mother mend that rip in your breeches?"

Oh, she's away to the sewing circle to make clothes for poor children."

A MAN who won't take a paper because he can borrow one, has invented a machine with which he can cook his dinner by the smoke of his neighbor's chimney.

"BUBBY, why don't you go home and have your mother sew up that hole in your trowsers?"

"Oh, go long, old woman, our folks are economizing, and a hole will last longer than a patch."

"Boss, I want twenty-five cents," said a jour-printer to his employer.

"Twenty-five cents! How soon do you want it, Jake?"

"Next Tuesday."

"As soon as that? You can't have it!—I told you often that when you are in want of so large a sum of money, you must give me at least four weeks' notice."

DR. BOND says: "According to our experience, men talk more scandal than women, indeed most of that which the ladies hear, comes through their male friends. We have learned too, that women keep secrets better than men—what wife ever blabs the confidential communications of her husband?"

A BOY got his fathers's gun and loaded it; but was afraid to fire; he however, liked the fun of loading and so put in another charge, but still afraid to fire. He kept charging, but without firing, until he got six charges in the old piece. His grandmother, learning his temerity, smartly reproved him, and grasping the old continental, discharged it. The result was tremendous, throwing the old lady on her back. She promptly struggled to regain her feet, but the child cried out—"Lay still granny, there are five more charges in yet."

TER tam rowdy comed in, and axed me to sell him some peer. I dells him he had more as would do him goot. He call me von tam ole Tuch liar, and pegun to proke two tumplers. My wife she call for de vatch 'ouse. 'For de vatch 'ouse got dare, de tam rowdy he kick Hans Scruggle pehint his pack, kissed my taughter Petsey pefore her face, proke all ter tumblers 'cept ter old stone bitcher, and spilt my vife and todder peer parrels town in ter cellar.

WAITAH?

What, sir?

Got any green peas?

Yes, sir—have some?

Yaas.

Have anything else?

Yaas, a slice or two of strawberry, cut thin.

Certainly, sir, anything more?

More, sah! What do you take me for—a perfect hog, sah?

THE HOUR OF DEATH.—I have lived to see that this world is full of perturbations; and I have long been preparing to leave it, and gather comfort for the awful hour of making up my account with God, which I now apprehend to be near. And though I have, by His grace, loved Him in my youth, and feared Him in my age, and labored to have a conscience void of offence towards all men; yet, if thou, Lord, shouldst be extreme to mark what I have done amiss, how shall I abide it? Where I have failed, Lord, show mercy to me; for I plead not my righteousness; but the forgiveness of my unrighteousness, through His merits Who died to purchase pardon for penitent sinners. And since I owe thee a death, Lord, let it not be terrible, and then choose Thy own time; I submit to it. Let not mine, O Lord, but Thy will be done.—Richard Hooker.

TAKE NOTICE.—
All persons knowing themselves indebted, either by note or book account, will save cost by calling forthwith and settling up, as I am determined to have all my old accounts closed.

FALL & WINTER CLOTHING.—
The undersigned would respectfully call the attention of our friends and customers, as well as the citizens of the town and country generally, to our new and extensive assortment of consisting of every article of gentlemens' furnishing goods. We deem it unnecessary to make a newspaper flourish, being confident that a call and an examination of our goods, will satisfy all, that our goods are just what we recommend them to be, well made, of good material, and as cheap as the same quality of goods can be bought in the county of Huntingdon. It is not our desire, as it is not the policy of honest men, to deceive, but this much we will say, that we will guarantee to all who may favor us with their patronage, entire satisfaction as to quality, fit and price. Should gentlemen desire any particular kind or cut of clothing, not found in our stock, by leaving their measure, they can be accommodated at short notice. Call at the corner of the diamond, Long's new house.

GOOD NEWS!
WASHING CLOTHES BY PRESSURE!!
After fifty years experimenting, the proper article has at last been invented for women, in their hard labors on the washing day.
"IT IS EVEN SO!"
Come and be convinced that we are ahead of every machine in use. Half the time, half the hard labor, and half in wear and tear, is saved. Little boys and girls can do the work for their mothers. The undersigned have purchased the exclusive right of Huntingdon and Mifflin counties, to make and sell J. T. MUDGE'S
EMANCIPATOR WASHING MACHINES.
We desire the public to call and examine this truly LABOR-SAVING MACHINE. It can be seen at our shop on Washington street.
BALL & PEIGHTAL.

We, the undersigned, having thoroughly tested the above machine, take pleasure in recommending the same to the public, assured that they will find it all that is above claimed:

MEDICAL SCIENCE.
The history of "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS," the most remarkable medicine of the day, and the many cures that have been performed with it in cases of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, and diseases arising from a disordered liver or stomach, place it among the most astonishing discoveries that have taken place in the medical world. The diseases to which these Bitters are applicable are so universal, that there are but few of our friends who may not test their virtues in their own families or circle of acquaintances, and prove to their own satisfaction that there is at least one remedy among the many advertised medicines, deserving the public commendation. It is a fact that, in the minds of many persons, a prejudice exists against what are called Patent Medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as Hoofland's German Bitters? Physicians prescribe it, Why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their own families. Why should you reject it? Clergymen, and those the most eminent, take it; why should not you? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health; if you are sick, and require a medicine, try these Bitters.
These Bitters are prepared and sold by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 418 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies, and South America, at 75 cents per bottle. See that the signature of C. M. Jackson is on the wrapper of each bottle.

GROVER & BAKER'S CELEBRATED FAMILY SEWING MACHINES.
New Styles—Prices from $50 to $125. Extra Charge of $5 for Hemmers.
495 Broadway,..........New York.
730 Chestnut street,..........Philadelphia.
These Machines sew from two spools, as purchased from the store, requiring no re-winding of thread; they Hem, Fell, Gather, and Stitch in a superior style, finishing each seam by their own operation, without recourse to the hand-needle, as is required by other machines. They will do better and cheaper sewing than a seamstress can, even if she works for one cent an hour, and are, unquestionably, the best Machines in the market for family sewing, on account of their simplicity, durability, ease of management, and adaptation to all varieties of family sewing—executing either heavy or fine work with equal facility, and without special adjustment.
As evidence of the unquestioned superiority of their Machines, the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY beg leave to respectfully refer to the the following TESTIMONIALS.
"Having had one of Grover & Baker's Machines in my family for nearly a year and a-half, I take pleasure in commending it as every way reliable for the purpose for which it is designed—Family Sewing."—Mrs. Joshua Leavitt, wife of Rev. Dr. Leavitt, Editor of N. Y. Independent.
"I confess myself delighted with your Sewing Machine, which has been in my family for many months. It has always been ready for duty, requiring no adjustment, and is easily adapted to every variety of family sewing, by simply changing the spools of thread."—Mrs. Elizabeth Strickland, wife of Rev. Dr. Strickland, Editor of N. Y. Christian Advocate.
"After trying several different good machines, I preferred yours, on account of its simplicity, and the perfect ease with which it is managed, as well as the strength and durability of the seam. After long experience, I feel competent to speak in this manner, and to confidently recommend it for every variety of family sewing."—Mrs. E. B. Spooner, wife of the Editor of Brooklyn Star.
"I have used a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine for two years, and have found it adapted to all kinds of family sewing, from Cambric to Broadcloth. Garments have been worn out without the giving way of a stitch. The Machine is easily kept in order, and easily used."—Mrs. A. B. Whipple, wife of Rev. Geo. Whipple, New York.
"Your Sewing Machine has been in use in my family the past two years, and the ladies request me to give you their testimonials to its perfect adaptedness, as well as labor-saving qualities in the performance of family and household sewing."—Robert Boorman, New York.
"For several months we have used Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and have come to the conclusion that every lady who desires her sewing beautifully and quickly done, would be most fortunate in possessing one of these reliable and indefatigable 'iron needle-women,' whose combined qualities of beauty, strength and simplicity, are invaluable."—J. W. Morris, daughter of Gen. Geo. P. Morris, Editor of the Home Journal.
Extract of a letter from THOS. R. LEAVITT, Esq., an American gentleman, now resident in Sydney, New South Wales, dated January 12, 1858:
"I had a tent made in Melbourne, in 1853, in which there were over three thousand yards of sewing done with one of Grover & Baker's Machines, and a single seam of that has outstood all the double seams sewed by sailors with a needle and twine."
"If Homer could be called up from his murky hades, he would sing the advent of Grover & Baker as a more benignant miracle of art than was ever Vulcan's smithy. He would denounce midnight shirt-making as 'the direful spring of woes unnumbered.'"—Prof. North.
"I take pleasure in saying, that the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines have more than sustained my expectation. After trying and returning others, I have three of them in operation in my different places, and, after four years' trial, have no fault to find."—J. H. Hammond, Senator of South Carolina.
"My wife has had one of Grover & Baker's Family Sewing Machines for some time, and I am satisfied it is one of the best labor-saving machines that has been invented. I take much pleasure in recommending it to the public."—J. G. Harris, Governor of Tennessee.
"It is a beautiful thing, and puts everybody into an excitement of good humor. Were I a Catholic, I should insist upon Saints Grover and Baker having an eternal holiday in commemoration of their good deeds for humanity."—Cassius M. Clay.
"I think it by far the best patent in use. This Machine can be adapted from the finest cambric to the heaviest cassimere. It sews stronger, faster, and more beautifully than one can imagine. If mine could not be replaced, money could not buy it."—Mrs. J. G. Brown, Nashville, Tenn.
"It is speedy, very neat, and durable in its work; is easily understood and kept in repair. I earnestly recommend this Machine to all my acquaintances and others."—Mrs. M. A. Forrest, Memphis, Tenn.
"We find this Machine to work to our satisfaction, and with pleasure recommend it to the public, as we believe the Grover & Baker to be the best Sewing Machine in use."—Deary Brothers, Allisonia, Tenn.
"If used exclusively for family purposes, with ordinary care, I will wager they will last one 'three score years and ten,' and never get out of fix."—John Erskine, Nashville, Tenn.
"I have had your Machine for several weeks, and am perfectly satisfied that the work it does is the best and most beautiful that ever was made."—Maggie Aimison, Nashville, Tenn.
"I use my Machine upon coats, dressmaking, and fine linen stitching, and the work is admirable—far better than the best hand-sewing, or any other machine I have ever seen."—Lucy B. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.
"I find the work the strongest and most beautiful I have ever seen, made either by hand or machine, and regard the Grover & Baker Machine as one of the greatest blessings to our sex."—Mrs. Taylor, Nashville, Tenn.
"I have one of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machines in use in my family, and find it invaluable. I can confidently recommend it to all persons in want of a machine."—G. T. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.
"I take pleasure in certifying to the utility of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines. I have used one on almost every description of work for months, and find it much stronger and better in every respect than work done by hand."—Mrs. D. W. Wheeler, Nashville, Tenn.
"I would be unwilling to dispose of my Grover & Baker Machine for a large amount, could I not replace it again at pleasure."—Mrs. H. G. Scovel, Nashville, Tenn.
"Our two machines, purchased from you, do the work of twenty young ladies. We with pleasure recommend the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine to be the best in use."—N. Stillman & Co., Memphis, Tenn.
"The Grover & Baker Sewing Machine works admirably. I think the stitch and work far superior to that of any Sewing Machine I ever saw. On fine work, I think the Machine would be hard to beat."—J. W. Davie, Memphis, Tenn.
"I find the Machine easily managed, very durable, and take pleasure in recommending it to all who wish convenience, economy, and pleasure."—Mrs. F. Titus, Memphis, Tenn.
"The Grover & Baker Sewing Machines have given such satisfaction that we cheerfully recommend them to all who wish a good and substantial Sewing Machine. It executes work with much care and speed, and more finely than any other machine I have seen."—Mrs. R. B. Mitchell, Memphis, Tenn.
"I am happy to give my testimony in favor of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and of the perfect satisfaction it gives in every respect. It sews neatly, and is by no means complicated, and I prefer it to all others I have seen."—Mrs. Bryan, wife of Rev. A. M. Bryan, Memphis, Tenn.
"It affords me much pleasure to say, that the Machine works well; and I do not hesitate to recommend it as possessing all the advantages you claim for it. My wife is very much pleased with it, and we take pleasure in certifying to this effect."—R. C. Brinkley, Memphis, Tenn.
"It gives me pleasure to find the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine giving so much satisfaction. I have it in constant use, and find it all that could be desired. It is the most simple and durable machine in use, and I heartily recommend it."—F. M. White, Memphis, Tenn.
"Having seen, examined, and used many other kinds of Sewing Machines, I feel free to say, that the Grover & Baker Machines are far superior to all others in use."—M. Francios Seltz, Nashville, Tenn.
"I consider my Sewing Machine invaluable, and would not take five times its cost, if I could not supply its place. With it I can do all my family sewing in about one-fourth the time I could with my hands."—M. J. Scott, Nashville, Tenn.

THE HUNTINGDON FOUNDRY IN BLAST AGAIN!—The subscribers take this method of informing their friends and the public generally, that they have rebuilt the Huntingdon Foundry, and are now in successful operation, and are prepared to furnish Castings of every description, of best quality and workmanship, on short notice, and on reasonable terms. Farmers are invited to call and examine our Ploughs. We are manufacturing the Hunter Plough. This plough took the first premium at the Huntingdon county Agricultural Fair last fall. Also, Hunter's celebrated Cutter Ploughs, which can't be beat—together with the Keystone, Hillside and Bar-shear ploughs. We have on hand and are manufacturing Stoves—such as Cook, Parlor, and Office stoves for wood or coal. Hollow ware, consisting of Kettles, Boilers, Skillets, &c., all of which we will sell cheap for cash or in exchange for country produce. Old metal taken for castings. By a strict attention to business, and a desire to please, we hope to receive a liberal share of public patronage.
